Contaminants

Often when out shopping you select your favorite brands, trusting the company you are purchasing from. However, not all companies are dependable.

Contaminants can enter a product during any point in the production process, from raw ingredients themselves having flaws to your packaging process.

Test your products every step of the way, from raw ingredients to finished products, to ensure you're providing a product your clientele can rely on.

From bacteria to dangerous PFAs, the types of contaminants that can make their way into products are astounding! Be sure not to be on the wrong side of a lawsuit, by testing your products first!

By providing top quality care for your customers, you'll be trusted and appreciated!

Enalytic, LLC is an ISO/IEC 17025:2017 Accredited Laboratory.
